October 22, 1981

Dear Mr. Hung,

This letter confirms your appointment to the editorial department of Trade Media Ltd and outlines your position and responsibilities.

POSITION: Initially, you will be employed as a "cub reporter" and during this time I expect you to become familiar with our editorial writing style and all phases of reporting work. You will be given assignments to do stories for our publications each month. Your primary duties will be to interview leading makers/exporters in various product lines assigned to you and to write meaningful articles about these topics. You will be expected to meet deadlines on time, and to submit short articles (unassigned) about new products and happenings that affect international trade from your country each month. Your status will be reviewed quarterly and promotion to the position of "reporter" will be made when you have demonstrated the ability to handle the job.

RESPONSIBILITIES: You are responsible for the accuracy of the material you submit for publication and for meeting all deadlines. You are directly responsible to the editor of the magazine you are working for, and you are also responsible to the publisher and should represent the company in a mature and distinguished manner during all interviews.

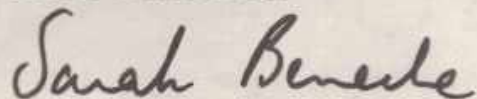

TERMS: You will be paid on a per-word basis at the rate of HK$0.20 per word during your probationary period as "cub reporter" and this rate will be adjusted if and when you are promoted to "reporter." Notice of intent to discontinue employment with Trade Media Ltd should be given in writing at least one month in advance. This period of notice is binding on both parties, but Trade Media Ltd reserves the right to implement immediate dismissal for acts of theft or wilful negligence against the company, or for acts of plagiarism or for submitting material already submitted for publication to Trade Media Ltd to other competitor publications. Furthermore, writers that are consistently late with their copy, or do not file assigned articles, or otherwise who fail to meet the good standards of work and reliability, may be put on probation for a period of time, or dismissed for cause.
